

bread is free: children and young people talk about poverty

bread is free: children and young people talk about poverty

CAROLYNE WILLOW

Carolyne Willow

Children's Rights Alliance
for England

The Children's Rights Alliance for England (CRAE) is a human rights organisation for children and young people. We have over 170 member organisations, including all the major children's organisations. CRAE promotes the fullest implementation of the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child, which the UK Government ratified in December 1991. We carry out public policy advocacy; provide training to service providers and to children and young people; disseminate up-to-date information on all aspects of children's human rights; and carry out projects of national significance.

CRAE is concerned about the care and treatment of all children and young people but we have a special interest in promoting policy and service development for those living in poverty. Further, we have extensive experience of supporting organisations to promote children's and young people's effective participation in decision-making.

Save the Children is the UK's leading international children's charity. Working in more than 70 countries, we run emergency relief alongside long-term development and prevention work to help children, their families and communities to be self-sufficient.

Drawing on this practical experience, Save the Children also seeks to influence policy and practice to achieve lasting benefits for children within their communities. In all its work, Save the Children endeavours to make children's rights a reality.

Registered Charity No. 213890
Save the Children England Programme
2nd Floor, National Deposit House, 1 Eastgate, Leeds LS2 7LY Tel 0113 242 4844
www.savethechildren.org.uk

Published by Children's Rights Alliance for England, July 2001

Registered Charity No. 1005135

319 City Road, London EC1V 1LJ
Tel 020 7278 8222
Fax 020 7278 9552
info@crights.org.uk
www.crights.org.uk

ISBN 1-898961-07-7

This consultation project was carried out by Michael Jarrett and Faye Sutton from Save the Children's Midlands development team and by Carolyne Willow from the Children's Rights Alliance for England.

Michelle Jackson and Marion Dickins from Save the Children helped to arrange the consultation sessions and prepared the transcripts from each session.

Save the Children funded the design and printing costs of this report.
Produced by design@print solutions limited 0115 986 8329

All names in this report have been changed to protect children's and young people's anonymity. Where possible the sex and ages of participants have been included.